

Domain Name Registration: What does it mean to 'register a domain name'?

A. There is a central registry database of all domain names on the Internet. In order for your domain name to be recognized, it must be in the registry. 'Registering a domain name' means you are associated with that domain name for the period of the registration. That is the service we provide at dnsExit.com for individuals, companies and large corporations all over the world.

Unique solution ID: #1056

Author: dnsexit

Last update: 2011-12-29 16:14